

Announcing a new funding package for Michigan's unique PhD programs in Romance Languages and Literatures!

FRENCH | ITALIAN | SPANISH

Ph.D. Applications Due Monday December 18

The basic funding package includes tuition coverage, yearly stipend or salary of at least $38,970, and health and dental insurance for you and eligible dependents. It includes one year of fellowship and up to five years of teaching as a Graduate Student Instructor (GSI).

Please visit our website for more details!

The graduate program in Romance Languages and Literatures is characterized by a longstanding commitment to interdisciplinarity, curricular flexibility, and individualized attention and mentorship. The flexibility of our program encourages students to take advantage of the breadth of resources that U-M offers, without sacrificing depth of study in a particular field. The courses offered reflect the variety of our faculty's interests including cultural studies, gender studies and feminism, colonial and postcolonial studies, philosophy and political thought, psychoanalysis, Marxism, and deconstruction. Our students have many opportunities to participate in interdisciplinary work both within RLL (across languages, national traditions and fields of study) and in other departments.